Philadelphia, Aug 10 — The Pennsylvania railroad management, today, maintained silence as to the action of its board of directors in discussing the threatened strike of shopmen as a consequence of the railroad management's disregard of the ruling of the railroad wage board Officials refused to discuss the situation, but smiled confidently when asked if the road was prepared

"The Pennsylvania is always prepared for any emergency," said one "whether it be strike, flood, fire or accident It is not likely that we remained idle when others are [illegible] broadcast that they are about to take action of grave consequences."

Unofficially, the road's "preparedness" was the subject of wide discussion among the men Not only were there rumors of special dormitory and commissary provisions being made at points along the line for the accommodation of new men in event of a strike, but the old rumor of stores of arms, ammunitions and even machine-guns cropped up again

One of the most persistent rumors was that the Pennsylvania railroad has offered permanent positions to machinists formerly employed in the big industrial plant who now are out of work in case of a strike.

MURDERED MAN GIVEN WARNING

Here that the money broker had received some word that his life was in danger

This theory is substantiated by the fact that a note of warning, scribbled on a piece of wrapping paper, was found near the murder house the day after Kennedy was shot This note stating "your life is in danger" was signed "a friend."

At the end of a conference of four and one-half hours between District Attorney Thomas Lee Woolwine and Mrs Madelynne Obenchain, held as a material witness in the murder case, the former announced that he would place all the facts before the grand jury tomorrow A coroner's jury, late yesterday, found that Kennedy "came to his death from a gunshot wound inflicted by persons unknown, with the intent to commit murder"

While the district attorney was locked in star chamber session with the enigma woman of the mystery, Arthur C. Burch, held in the county jail as a suspect, was closeted with deputy district attorneys who sought in vain to obtain a statement from him.

Burch Evasive.

Burch was evasive throughout and answered all attempts to question him with "I have nothing to say"

While Woolwine refused to discuss his long interview with Mrs Obenchain, it was unofficially reported that indictments would be asked against both Burch and Mrs Obenchain.

Mrs Obenchain today showed signs of a disheartened, fatalistic attitude toward the entire affair.

"If they indict me, very well," she said. "If they find me guilty, I shall not grieve. Even if they should give me the extreme punishment of hanging, I shall never demur. Because this life, it seems to me, after the happiness I have known, so often is but a mere school for the life to come, a life that is a dream now, because my Belton has gone there Were it not for my mother and sister, I would not have sought an attorney. I would let the law take its course without a protesting word"

Widespread search for the gun with which Kennedy was killed is being continued today It still remains the one big missing link in the long chain of evidence in the case.

Funeral services for the murdered man will be held this afternoon.

FEDERAL TAXES TO BE REDUCED

lieve it can be done. They foresee the necessity for a lot of deficiency appropriations toward the close of next year

Regardless, however, of whether the income equals the outlay, there will be reduced federal taxes for this year at least.

Twin Problems.

With the clarification of the taxation scrap, settlement of which has been delayed ten days while President Harding has been vacationing, the Republican leaders in the house began a drive today, to speed up a program towards a recess. It is hoped to get the taxation program completed and passed within two weeks. Then both houses are going to recess for a month, leaving the senate committees to thresh around with the twin problems—taxation and tariff. Except for unexpected contingencies arising within the next fortnight, this will be the plan of procedure

Treasury estimates of the amount needed to run the government for the next fiscal year will be slashed from $4 554 [illegible] to $4,034, [illegible] 000, a reduction of $500,000,000.

The program of retrenchment in expenses to correspond to this cut will fall heavily on the army-and-navy and shipping board. Present plans contemplate lopping off $59,[illegible]00,000 from the war department's allotment, $100,000,000 from the navy and $100,000,000 from the shipping board This will take up about half the amount.

Dayton, Aug 10 —Following an opinion by City Attorney Harshaman, today, the city commission turned down the Dayton Tax-Payers' league petition for a recall election and the return of the federal form of government. The league says it will appeal to the state.

BOOK OF BOLDNESS

The International Sunday School Lesson for August 14 Is "Paul at Iconium and Lystra."—Acts 14:1-28.

BY WILLIAM T. ELLIS

Without courage there is no character. Given a stout heart, one can get along without many of the finer accomplishments. For both life and faith, youth needs boldness—"boldness and ever boldness" Just how many millions of young people are in process of having iron injected into their spirit's blood by way of the Book of Boldness In our Bibles it is called "The Acts," often, "The Acts of the Apostles"—although it might more truly be called "The Acts of the Holy Spirit." Better yet, this record of heroism deserves the title "The Book of Boldness."

We may well be wary of that type of Bible teacher who is forever finding "Key Words" and "Plans," and all sorts of ingenious symbolisms and verbal significances in the books of the sacred Canon. God never meant that readers of His word should have to possess these clever, man-made "keys" for the interpretation of his plainly written meaning It is quite another matter, though, to observe as any careful reader may do, the main characteristic of a given portion of Scripture That is a primary purpose of intelligent Bible-study The present six months course in the Acts will have failed of its full usefulness unless it gives a grasp of the general truth that the idea of boldness is dominant in the book The heroisms of Paul and Barnabas in the present lesson are an appropriate occasion for indicating this striking truth.

Real "Free Speech."

Anybody who will take the root word "bold," with its formations of "boldly" and "boldness," and follow it through the Acts, will be struck by its central place in the story Ten times the word itself occurs; constantly its spirit is expressed and exemplified A Greek-English dictionary will help; for it will make clear that the literal significance of this "boldness" of the Acts is "free utterance" That is to say Bible boldness is courage bearing witness There is no valor greater than that of true testimony. It honors the disciples who "say so" At once it is apparent how directly this applies to the open confession of faith by the followers of Jesus To stand up for him may take more courage than to face a machine gun or an artillery barrage

As a paragraph let me indicate the recurrence of "boldness" in the Book of the Acts. It was when they "saw the boldness of Peter and John"—Acts 4:13—that men took knowledge of them that they had been with Jesus. The first recorded prayer of the Christian church—Acts 4 29—was a prayer for boldness in testimony, and its definite answer is indicated two verses later. Of Paul's first preaching at Damascus and Jerusalem—Acts 9:27, 29—this word "boldly" is used. In last week's lesson—Acts 13:46—we have a similar record; and today—Acts 14:3—we find him preaching boldly" at Iconium The eighth use of this sturdy English word in the Acts describes Apollos at Ephesus—Acts 18:26—and in the same city for three months Paul "spoke boldly"—Acts 19:8. As the first record of Paul's preaching was of his boldness, so the last—Acts 28-31—shows him in Rome teaching of Christ "with all boldness."

Such a study as this—and it may be pursued widely through Paul's letters—does more to stiffen a Christian's convictions than reams of homilies and exhortations. If these lessons have been characterized by candor in dealing with the life of today, it is because as a young man I found for myself the secret of "free utterance" in this Book of Boldness.

Kicked Out, Smiling Still.

This spirit of boldness, born of faith, is the father of the only sort of optimism that is worth seeing. Those folk who have outgrown the Scriptures but are devoted to tawdry booklets on "optimism," remind me of the tenement kiddie who when taken to the country by a fresh air fund, refused rich, milk: he didn't want that "yellow stuff," for he knew that milk, such as he got at home, was blue!

Real fortitude is born of faith. It is the spirit which writes such passages into the record of the itinerating of Paul and Barabas, after they had been mobbed and kicked out of Antioch in Pisidia—don't get your Antiochs mixed—as this:—"the disciples were filled with joy and the Holy Spirit." Divine paradox! Beaten bruised spit upon, cursed, humiliated: and yet "filled with joy": what can conquer such a spirit?

More of the same—to anticipate the order of events a trifle—The disciples were driven out of Iconium and Lystra, whither they went from Antioch. Paul was stoned and left for dead, and his friends gathered round him, but "he rose up"—and did what? Scoot for the seashore? Make tracks for a cave in the mountains? Seek the protection of the law? "He entered into the city"—returned straight into the jaws of the lions. Ah, there was a man for you!

Nor is that all After continuing their itinerary to Derbe, making converts, Paul and Barnabas, according to the bald, matter-of-fact record penned by Dr. Luke, "returned to Lystra and to Iconium and to Antioch"—not to seek consolation or to be pitied or coddled, but,—"confirming the souls of the disciples, exhorting them to continue in the faith, and that through many tribulations we must enter into the kingdom of God" That is the matchless might and magnanimity of the Christian missionary

"All Aboard Bagdad Railway!"

It seems as if this lesson is as appropriate for a class in current events as for a Sunday-school group The fourteenth chapter of the Acts plumps squarely down in the heart of the trouble zone of the Near East. If we could actually go to the scene, we would still meet the effects of the Pauline teaching, in the activities of the American relief workers. What a woman after Paul's own heart is Miss Cushman, of Iconium, whose war experiences are a romance past telling. At Iconium also we might meet Mustapha Kamal Pasha, the Turkish Nationalist leader, who has outmatched all the allies since the armistice

Frequently in the news cablegrams we read of Konia, as the Turkish center, unaware that it is the lineal successor of old Iconium, and the many-layered survivor of the seat of history-making events. Ruins there are in plenty in the city; one of the oldest mosques having been turned into an armory when I was there Konia is the center of the greatest of the dervish orders, and its home mosque is really impressive. Italian soldiers lounged around Konia during my visit, after the armistice, for this is within the "sphere" allotted to the Italians by the powers before Mustapha Kemal Pasha revised their plans for them. Adalia, the port assigned the Italians, is where Paul and Barnabas landed and left.

We may take the much discussed Bagdad railway to the scene of our lesson; for Konia is the principal station on the line in Anatolia, and the junction point for all Smyrna. Lystra and Derbe, our other two lesson cities, are along the line to the East. Derbe is [illegible] the magnificent scenery just before you come to the Taurus mountains; it is almost due north of Paul's home town of Tarsus. If he had already evangelized the Cilician Plain (which the French have lately had to evacuate), his carrying the Good News to Derbe, would be like a general's effecting a junction of his two fronts. For be it remembered that this missionary tour was no hasty trip, but a campaign covering three or four years. The great apostle entertained none of the easy and superficial conceptions of the missionary enterprise which are sometimes prevalent.

Apotheosized, Then Mobbed.

A theological professor told me the other day of a Boston minister who was examining his face in his study mirror when a visitor unexpectedly came upon him The clergyman was heard soliloquizing, "Napoleon Bonaparte Jebb, you are the handsomest man in Boston!"

Insofar as he had any reputation at all, that really was the reputation this popular preacher possessed. Of course no man who would care so much for his personal appearance could ever mean anything serious to the world In this lesson we find Paul and Barnabas hailed as gods, and it wrought them up to a pitch of horror. They wanted no honors for themselves. After their popularity and then expulsion from Iconium, they had gone to Lystra, where Timothy was doubtless one of their converts, and there, too, they had shared the Master's experience of being acclaimed with hosannas, and then hounded with curses Popular favor is a fickle mistress.

At Lystra, Paul had healed a lame man. The miracle was sensational. Before ever the Christian missionaries knew it, the word had run through the bazaars and baths that Jupiter and Mercury had come to earth, in the person of Barnabas and Paul. So the mob led by their priests, brought garlands and sacrifices to offer the strangers.

Shocked, outraged and humiliated that any glory should come to them that belonged to God, the Apostles sprang forth among the multitude, rending their clothes and protesting against such an exaltation and apotheosis of themselves. Significantly, though, these missionaries, whom nothing could divert from their first work, used the occasion as an opportunity for preaching Christ. So they restrained the multitude.

Ere long the bitter Jewish enemies that were now continuously on their trail stirred up the volatile crowd against the missionaries, who were stoned out of Lystra. Paul was left for dead: indeed, the text implies that he arose by a miracle. We may easily imagine the deep sorrow, and even panic, that filled the group of disciples, including young Timothy, who surrounded the prostrate and bleeding figure. But Paul's work was not yet done; and the next day he was off to Derbe, later retracing the route to Antioch in Syria, where the church received its envoys with great rejoicings.

WHERE WERE THEY?

Worried, fighting mad—with all his hunter's instinct alert, Milt Dale, "The Man of the Forest," crashed and fought his way through the forest—his keen eyes searching for tracks of horses—for a clue that would tell him where they had taken his sweetheart.

How he found and saved her against great odds with the aid of his trained mountain lion presents an episode of Western grit as only Zane Grey can tell it.

DISARMAMENT OF THE WOMEN

Suggested by Alice Robertson, of Oklahoma.

MURDERS BY WOMAN ON THE INCREASE

Trouble Due to Laxity Juries in Dealing with Women Who Kill, Says Congresswoman.

Washington, 10.—Compulsory disarmament women was suggested, today, by Alice Robertson, Oklahoma's women congressman.

With murders by women on the increase, she declared it was necessary as disarmament of nations.

"The lady from Oklahoma," had been asked to comment on the shocking and growing tendency of her sex to kill off the male population.

"The women talk so much about disarmament—well, why don't they disarm?" she demanded. "Why don't they begin it by disarming women?"

Women want war, the lady congressman declared, discussing the disarmament movement in general.

"Certainly they want war," she said. "They talk disarmament, but they want war. Look at the so-called women's magazines. They're filled with advertisements of military accessories. Women clamoring for disarmament send their boys to military academies and let stores continue to sell toys suggestive of war."

When informed a movement was under way to have her named as the woman member of the American delegation to the president's armament-limitation conference, she said:

"Why should I be there? It's no place for a woman."

Women Murderers.

Speaking her mind on women murderers, suffrage and other females of the species, she said. "Women who murder get off too easy. They're not judged according to same standards as men who murder, but you don't hear the Suffragists want equal rights for women the men, do you? No the Suffragists want equal rights for women with special privileges.

"Men have innate courtesy and give women privileges. My male colleagues in congress think they must pay me certain courtesies because I'm a woman. When I get into an elevator, they make way for me and remove their hats. I wish they would not. Why should they treat me as differently from a man since I'm on an equal basis with them?

"Men are not so bad. Women declare them cruel and unjust, but they are not.

"It should be remembered that men who are bad had women for their mothers."

"But to disarm only the women—that would be unjust?" it was suggested.

"There should be compulsory disarmament of men, too—of course the men should be included," said Miss Alice.

DEATH PENALTY TO BE SOUGHT

PROSECUTOR SAYS SLAYER IS SANE

Lad Has Sixth-Grade Education—Takes Charges Calmly. Brother Is Released.

Boonville, Ind., August 10—The extreme penalty for William Deffendoll, seventeen years old, alleged confessed slayer of his mother, Mrs Laura Deffendoll, seventy years old, of near Selvin, Indiana, whose body was found in a woods near her home last week, will be demanded, it was announced yesterday by N. M. Youngblood, Prosecuting Attorney of Warrick county.

"I will insist upon the death penalty. William Deffendoll is a dangerous criminal," said Mr. Youngblood.

The affidavit charging William with first-degree murder was read to him by Mr. Youngblood.

"You understand what that means," Mr. Youngblood asked the prisoner.

"Yes sir," replied the boy.

"This boy is not insane," said Mr. Youngblood later. "He has a sixth grade education and knows right from wrong."

Dolly Deffendoll, twenty-two years old, William's brother, was questioned by Mr. Youngblood and other Warrick county officials as to what he knew about the crime. Dolly at first was accused of the murder by his brother William as the two stood over the body of their mother.

Dolly denied all knowledge of the crime. Evidence has been found officials say, to show that on the day of the murder, Friday, July 22, Dolly was at work on a road near Boonville and that he did not return to his home until the next day. It is said, however, that Dolly will be held under bond as a witness.

A plea of insanity probably will be entered for William, it was said.

AMERICAN CONCERNS QUITTING IN BRAZIL

Leaving Business to Germans and the English.

DR. WILL H. WRIGHT WRITES TO A FRIENDS

Discusses America Dollar and Rates of Exchange at Rio de Janeiro.

Discussing American dollars and rates of exchange in Brazil, Dr. Will H. Wright, of Rio de Janeiro, formerly of Marion, writing from Rio de Janeiro under date of July 10 to a Marion friend, declares: "It is out of the question to buy them now if one wanted to or had the money to do so, for exchange is worse than it has been in the history of the Brazillia nrepublic. They only cost ten mil reis to the dollar now where three is normal, consequently all general business has gone to the woods and there isn't any. Hard times is here and with a vengance. American concerns are simply closing out completely and sending their men home which is a mistake for it is going to hurt them for future business. The English concerns are sending all the men home they can, but keeping one or two in the offices and making a pretense of doing business so that when things do open up again they will be on the job, but the American companies are shutting up shop completely. They certainly are making it that much easier for the Germans to get the business in these places. In fact, the Germans are the only ones that seem to be doing a foreign business and a plenty of it, for these places are overrun with German goods of all lines.

Since the War.

"Ever since the end of the war, they have been on the job while the rest of the countries have been scrapping amongst themselves and have given them practically a clear field for foreign trade. It is the same old game as before the war, both with the Germans and the English with their tricks and propaganda, and it will take the 'States' a long time to learn the foreign game as it is played by them. The 'States' had the chance of their life to get foreign business and they had it during the war, but since then have been letting it go, but the worse part is that they have allowed the Germans to come back in the game without working to re-establish themselves.

"When it comes down to shipping, we have everything to learn, and the way our ships are run certainly is a sin. And if all ports are the same as here, the American ships are being grafted on all the time."

NEELY NOMINATED FOR MAYOR BY DEMOCRATS

He Gets a Total Vote of 542 in Primary.

WINNER IN FIELD OF FIVE CANDIDATES

Only Other Race Among Democrats Is for Councilmen in Second and Third Wards.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

Mayor—George W. Neely.

Pres. of Council—C. L. Luellen.

Auditor—A. B Wilhelm.

Treasurer—Ben T. Wiant.

Solicitor—No candidate.

Councilmen-at-large—R. L. Hahn, C. E Merkel and G. B. Orr.

Neely Nominated by 542.

The Democrats selected George W. Neely for the nominee of mayor from a field of five candidates. Neely received 542 votes which gave him a plurality of 102 over Frank Berry, his closest opponent, who received 440 votes. Otis L Boger was third in the race with 352 votes and Herbert A McMurray came fourth with ninety, while Harry J. Ackerman brought up the rear with seventy-four.

The only other races on the Democratic were for ward councilmen in the Second and Third wards. In the Second ward Thomas J. Mead was victorious over Ralph Hurr by a vote of 131 to 89. The race for councilman in the Third ward was the hottest on the ticket. William E Coler won out from Anson Pickerel by seven votes, the vote being Coler 253 and Pickerel 246. Owing to the narrow margin the board of elections made an official count of the votes for these candidates.

Ben T Wiant, for city treasurer with no opposition, pulled the highest vote on the Democratic ticket, 1,091. Next to him was C. L Luellen, for president of council, who received 1,044. A B Wilhelm, without opposition for auditor received 977 votes.

With three council-men-at-large to be nominated and only three on the ticket, George B Orr led with 798 votes. Charles E. Merkel was second with 758 and Robert L Hahn received 638. Edward Sexton received 175 votes for councilman of the First ward without a contest and O C Apt, without opposition, in the Fourth ward for councilman, received 160 votes.

J. B Hume and Jay Vaughan were the only Democratic candidates for places on the board of education and they were nominated by votes of 842 and 841, respectively.

BASEBALL GAME OPENS PICNIC OF MERCHANTS

Which Is Held at Lincoln Park Today.

A baseball game between teams representing the Advertising and Kiwanis clubs opened the program for the joint Advertising-Kiwanis clubs and Merchants' picnic at Lincoln park this afternoon. The retail dry-goods, ready-to-wear and millinery stores and banks are hosts for the merchants.

A program of sixteen contests for men, women and children is to follow the baseball game and at the close of these contests there will be picnic suppers. This evening an orchestra is to furnish music for a dance in the park pavilion.

Big Island Township.

The Big Island township farm bureau held its regular meeting last night. W. H. Uncapher was elected captain of a tug-of-war team and William Ikenssa, captain of the horse-shoe pitching team which will take part in the contests to be staged at the grange and farm bureau picnic at Garfield park a week from today. At the same meeting Frank Oesterle was elected business agent for the bureau and was given orders for two carloads of fertilizer to be purchased from the Commercial Service company of the State Farm bureau at the price of $20 a ton.

THIRD OF REGISTERED VOTE POLLED TUESDAY

Making Cost About Fifty-Five Cents a Vote.

ELECTION WORKERS TO BE PAID AFTER THURSDAY

Republican Voters Turn Out in Much Larger Numbers Than Democrats.

The tabulation of the primary vote in Marion, Tuesday, brings out a number of interesting features.

According to the clerk of the board of elections, about thirty per cent of the registered vote of the city was cast, making the cost about fifty-five cents a vote. The three candidates for mayor on the Republican ticket polled a total of 2 659 votes against 1,498 votes for the five candidates for mayor on the Democratic ticket, showing a majority of 1,161 Republican voters turning out.

While it is known that many Democrats went to the polls and voted on the Republican side, by reason of having supported Warren G. Harding for president at the last election, the vote in Third ward I indicates a big falling off on the Republican side.

How It's Explained

This was undoubtedly due to the residents in that vicinity supporting Frank Berry, one of the Democratic candidates for the nomination for mayor he being a resident of Oakland Heights, where the precinct is located. Berry pulled ninety-nine votes in the precinct which was forty-four more than all the other candidates on both tickets received.

The judges and clerks of the various precincts last night were complimented for their work in getting in the returns early. All of the precincts had their reports and supplies turned in at the headquarters of the board by 9 o'clock.

The registrars, judges and clerks will receive their pay at the office of the county treasurer any time after Thursday.

HAPPY NOVA SCOTIA.

The premier of Nova Scotia has just celebrated the completion of his twenty-fifth consecutive year in that office. This silver jubilee is something of a record, and as one scans the record of George Henry Murray, K. C., and his six triumphant general elections, one wonders why this perennial bloom of power has not been observed more conspicuously.

So often a man may be heard to explain his futility in public office by citing the public indifference which retires him ere his task be done, or even begun. Here is a statesman who has had a quarter of a century, which is a long time. Babies are men with families; a generation of public men has passed away. What has George Henry Murray, K. C., to his credit in return for the public confidence, uninterrupted for a quarter of a century?

He has given Nova Scotia a first-class agricultural college which has become the center of modern agricultural education in the maritime provinces. He inaugurated a complete system of technical education for industrial workers and tradesmen, culminating in the establishment of a technical college at Halifax, the first state-owned institution of its kind in North America.

He has given government aid to railroad construction and has made an elaborate plan for highways. He has instituted many measures for general education, compensation for workmen, aiding the sick, afflicted and helpless members of the community, and he has made a special point of attracting industrial enterprise toward the fine mineral resources of the province.

In fact, George Henry Murray reads like a reincarnation of Father Madeleine, who, in his renaissance, was almost too good to be true. No one ever hears very much about Nova Scotia. They must be happy there.

MEXICO TRIFLE TOO FREE.

"The hundredth anniversary of Mexico's independence from Spain will be observed with all the fanfare and pagentry of old Mexico," September 12 to October 12, a feature of the celebration being a "great international commercial exposition."

The quoted clauses are taken from an advertisement addressed to American manufacturers who are asked to exhibit their goods "in the magnificent national legislative palace, a new $5,000,000 building covering two city blocks. It will attract every business man in Mexico."

We hope that the centennial celebration will be a grand success and that it will mark the resumption of good relations between that country and the United States, founded upon a reawakened Mexican conscience. But we have doubts on this point.

The advertisement screams, "The Mexico of today was born without a memory. The new era has canceled the law of vested rights. An eager nation is measuring off centuries in two, three or five-year lenghts. The present generation is so busy with today's achievements and tomorrow's projects it has no time to remember the closed books of yesterday."

There is just the trouble. Mexico would go too fast. Yesterday can not be forgotten. Obligations undertaken yesterday must be discharged today. Americans would put no obstacles in the way of Mexico's rehabilitation. But we must insist upon Mexico being honest as well as enterprising. When canceling the law of vested rights means stealing a friend's property one can hardly expect the friend cheerfully to extend a helping hand.

The South Charleston Sentinel remarks that "when a girl has to pay $20 for low shoes and $50 for a silk sweater she shouldn't be expected to wear much of a dress." Talk like that might lead one to suspect that somebody in South Charleston is profiteering.

TO SAVE THE EAGLE.

There is merit in the proposal of T. Gilbert Pearson, president of the National Association of Audubon Societies, that the killing of bald eagles in Alaska be stopped until careful investigation has disclosed whether the birds deserve death. Alaska is the last remaining place owned by the United States where the bald eagle, symbol of American independence, is to be found in large numbers, and there is some liklihood that it will be exterminated there unless the warfare now being waged against the bird is ended. On the ground that as a predatory creature it destroys animal life which would be of value to mankind the territorial government is paying a bounty for each eagle killed, and Mr. Pearsen says he has authentic information that bounties have been paid already on 15,000.

Now scientific investigation has shown that birds and mammals supposed to be injurious sometimes do more good than harm and that it is a mistake to exterminate them, as they play an important part in maintaining the equilibrium of nature, and when the balance is disturbed mischief results. Thus it has been found in certain localities that after the extermination of hawks and owls rats and mice increased rapidly and did more damage than the birds, which held their numbers down but which, because they occasionally attacked chickens and game, were considered a nuisance. It is averred in places in the West that since the coyotes disappeared prairie dogs, on which they used to prey, have multiplied so rapidly that they have become more of a pest that the little wolves were.

The only fair way to determine the good and bad qualities of a wild creature is by careful study of the habits of a large number of specimens. The bald eagle, as Mr. Pearson says, is entitled to its day in court. The bounty, encouraging men to exterminate this great American bird, should be withdrawn until examination of the evidence has determined accurately its economic status.

LIFE'S VAUDEVILLE.

[By Dr. James Ball Naylor.]

WARM APPROVAL.

The appointment of Mr. Charles G. Dawes, as head of the budget down at Washington, is meeting with warm approval all over the country. This is quite gratifying, not only to the friends of Mr. Dawes, but the friends of President Harding. For while Mr. Dawes is receiving praise as a clean business executive and loyal, thorough-going American, the president is receiving praise for the appointment.

Many persons know Mr. Dawes; and many more know of him.

It is refreshing to note that the frankly and rankly partisan papers opposed to the administration, even—without exception, almost—have good words for Mr. Dawes.

The Zanesville Signal praises him.

The Ohio State Journal commends the appointment.

And the Ohio State Journal finds it rather hard to refer in commendatory terms, to anything the present administration does or contemplates doing.

From the State Journal editorial anent the appointment of Mr. Dawes, I shall presume to quote—and append comments.

"It is refreshing to have a man like Charles G. Dawes in the public service. He takes off his coat and goes to work in an energetic, clear-headed, determined way."

Yes, that energetic, clear-headed, determined way—is the Dawes way of doing things. Mr. Dawes knows well that he has a fight on his hands—the fight of his life, probably; and, as always with him, he goes in stripped for action. He isn't going to try and put the God of Extravagance out of business, by choking him on lumps of butter; he's going to bludgeon him with the club of common sense and American manhood. And he expects us all to lend him support—as he has a right to expect: and we're going to do it. Political patronage isn't as important as patriotic economy and service: and our officials down at Washington must realize and act upon that truth.

"He holds an extremely important position as director of the national budget, and he goes in as if he meant to accomplish what has long seemed to be the impossible, viz.: to run the public business, so far as he is responsible for it, on a basis of real business efficiency."

That's it!

President Harding said

"More business in government; less government in business."

And that's just what we need.

"Other men in responsible positions in Washington have tried, we suppose, to do what Dawes is trying to do now, but they have soon succumbed to tradition and red tape and political pressure."

Well, as I read Charles Gates Dawes, he will care little or nothing for pet traditions—if they plead for governmental extravagance and inefficiency; and if his opponents try to entangle him in red tape—he'll make manifestation of his red blood; and if they bring political pressure to bear upon him—he'll rebound from it.

I haven't a doubt as to the president and his cabinet standing behind Dawes, in his herculean undertaking.

And, too, I haven't a doubt as to the people of the country standing behind him.

So the wise thing for official Washington to do—is to fall into line!

SCHOOL PRINCIPALS TO GET SLIGHT PAY BOOST

New Schedule Sequel to Recent Demand of Principals.

JANITOR SELECTED FOR VERNON HEIGHTS SCHOOL

Canvass Shows That, with New Buildings, Fire Insurance Will Aggregate Over Million.

A program providing for increases in salaries for grade school principals, selection of two janitors and an assistant and for the placing of an additional $175,000 of fire insurance on school buildings was adopted by the board of education Tuesday evening at a caucus in the offices of the Marion Gas company The caucus bound the board members to support this program, which will be ratified at the regular meeting of the board Monday night

Action of the caucus in the matter of salaries of grade school principals resulted from the appearance of seven of those principals at the last regular meeting of the board The principals requested the basis of remuneration of teacher-principals be changed and suggested arriving at the compensation on the basis of the number of teachers rather than the number of rooms in the buildings

A new salary schedule for principals of grade schools was adopted, basing the pay of such principals on the number of teachers in the school instead of on the number o rooms, as provided in the present schedule.

New Schedule.

The new schedule provides that in addition to the salaries of these principals as teachers they shall receive $10 a month in schools which have six teachers or less, $15 a month in schools of six and less than nine teachers, $20 a month in schools of nine and less than twelve teachers and $25 a month in school of twelve or more teachers.

According to the schedule now in effect principals receive, in addition to their salaries as teachers, $10 a month in buildings with eight rooms or less, $15 a month in buildings of more than eight and less than twelve rooms and $20 a month in buildings with twelve rooms or more.

Many for Janitor.

Twenty-eight applications for janitor of the Vernon Heights building were on file and Herbert H Gruber, of Carner avenue, was selected for this position by ballot.

Enoch Knachel was chosen as janitor of the Oakland Heights building and John Bland was named as assistant janitor of the Central Junior High building.

With $985,700 of fire insurance now carried on school buildings, the additional $175 000 which the board is to place will make a total of $1,163,700 of fire insuranle on the city school buildings.

This new insurance will be placed on the Vernon Heights, North Main, Central Junior High buildings and the addition to the Oakland Heights building.

Divide New Insurance.

It was also decided to divide this new insurance between the agencies which do not carry any school insurance now or have comparatively small amounts of this business

A canvas of the insurance now carried by the board disclosed that the Knapp agency has $218,100. G. F. Larle, $222,200; A W Kette & Company, $94,500; J. W. Llewellyn, $87,900; George S. McGuire, $49,000; S R Rauhauser. $87,500; E E. Bush, $34,600, E. Katz, $36,800; H. T. McColley, $20,500, Elmer J. Knauss, $30 900; H E Neidig, $33,000 and Paul Tobin, $34,300.

Saved Texas

WHEN Sam Houston saved Texas for the Americans in that historic fight on the banks of the San Jacinto, his valor was rewarded with the presidency of the new "Texas Republic."

The log cabin which served as his presidential "mansion" stood at the edge of a howling prairie and the "capital" was little more than a scattered collection of tents and huts.

Today that sturdy settlement of frontiersmen has become a city whose wealth and beauty far exceed Sam Houston's boldest dreams.

It's better to take a few pleasant little tablets and ward off a cold than to pay big doctor bills and lie in bed for days or weeks with pneumonia.

A. R. TENNIS IS LOSER AT TENNIS TO EDWIN JONES

The first round in the Clark cup singles tennis tournament at the Marion Tennis club courts was completed last evening with the staging of six matches and the defaulting of several matches One of the big surprises in yesterday's play was Edwin Jones' victory over A. R. Tennis, the latter going down in two sets with scores of 7-5, 6-4.

Jones is a left handed player and a fairly good gotter and may cause some trouble in the latter rounds of the fray Loran Allen defeated Dreher in a three-set match and thus won the chance of playing Richard Scott, who defeated T. R Allen in the first round. The Allen-Scott match will be played today, and will undoubtedly be one of the best matches of the tournament. The two players play a decidedly different type of game and the match should be a good exhibition of tennis. The results of yesterday's matches are as follows:

Jones defeated Tennis, 7-5, 6-4; Miller defeated Smith, 6-1, 6-2; R. White defeated F. Allen, 6-0, 6-0; L. Allen defeated Dreher, 6-4, 2-6, 6-3; G Allen defeated Rank, 6-3, 2-6, 6-1; Thomas defeated Young, 6-3, 8-6; Pain defaulted to Dombaugh; Cunningham defaulted to VonKaenal; Hinklin defaulted to H. Allen.

On account of several contestants drawing byes the three following members of the club are already in the third round. Jones, Miller and J. Hane. The second round is to be played off today and tomorrow.

BASEBALL GOSSIP.

Vaughn Is Lost.

Chicago, Aug 10 — Big Jim Vaughn, temperamental left-hander, probably is lost to the Chicago Cubs for the remainder of the season, as the result of a ruling by Judge Landis, baseball commissioner. Judge Landis placed Vaughn on the ineligible list definitely. Vaughn was suspended by the Cubs for deserting the club in New York, but the suspension was lifted, so far as the club was concerned, yesterday. Judge Landis held that Vaughn had disregarded his contract with the Cubs and had signed to play with the Fairbanks-Morse club of Beloit, Wisconsin, a semi-pro organization.

VEIOCK ON SPORTS

New York, Aug 10 —Mike Gibbons, uncrowned champion of the middleweights, has today taken another long step toward the title

Jeff. Smith, of Bayonne, was pressed into service as a stepping stone by the St. Paul wizard, who gave him a licking and a boxing lesson in twelve rounds at Jersey City

Smith, who fought Georges Carpentier to a standstill in twenty rounds and who boasts of a knockout victory over the late Les Darcy, was clay in the hands of Gibbons The veteran Mike seems to get better every time he starts He looked much faster and had more snap to his punches against Smith than he did recently against Augie Ratner, and he won in a walk

Gibbons is hot on the trail of the middleweight crown and does not mean to let up until he wins it He would like to exhibit the title on a trip around the world, however, and hopes to annex it within the next few months

Mike Collins, manager of Gibbons, announced today that he is going to take the phantom abroad in search of more fame and fortune. He has signed up with J. W Horsfield, of London, one of the biggest booking agents in Europe, and Gibbons will show his wares in England, Ireland, France, Germany, Italy and the Norse countries Later, he will invade the Orient and Australia, returning to the United States by way of Honolulu, next spring.

The contract signed by Collins is one of the most attractive of its kind ever closed by an American manager. Under its terms, Gibbons is to receive $200,000 and expenses, with a privilege of a percentage of all big bouts After returning to the United States, he will have twenty weeks in vaudeville.

"I'm eager for the trip," said Gibbons, today, "but I sure would like to take that title along with me. It's much nicer to be booked as a champion"

Gibbons is going to take his father as far as Ireland, he said

ORDINANCE OF 1787 IS INVOKED IN WEED CASE

Copeland Cites Federal and State Constitutional Laws.

HE SEEKS TO ESCAPE PAYMENT OF $25 FINE

Petition-in-Error Is Filed in the Common Pleas Court. Court News.

[illegible]ring of the case of George D. Copeland, plaintiff-in-error, against the City of Marion, filed in the common pleas court Tuesday afternoon, has been assigned for 1 o'clock on the afternoon of Friday, August 19. The petition-in-error was filed through Scofield, Durfee & Harder and Copeland & Thompson.

July 29, in Mayor T. E. Andrews' court, the plaintiff-in-error was found guilty of a charge of allowing noxious weeds to grow on premises owned by him in the southwest section of the city and was fined $25.

In the petition-in-error the plaintiff-in-error alleges the judgment of the mayor's court was not in accord with the evidence, is against the law and is in violation of Article I, Sections I and VI, of the constitution of the state, the thirteenth and fourteenth amendments of the constitution of the United States as well as Articles II and VI, of the ordinance of 1787 governing the territory northwest of the Ohio river.

Appraisers Are Named.

Judge Grant E. Mouser this morning in the common pleas court sustained a motion to set aside the appraisement in the partition suit of Ella Hampton against Ida Wentz, an infant, and others, on the ground that the appraisement was inadequate. G. A. Thibaut, John J. Stafford and O. G. Briggs were appointed appraisers.

Revived Against Plaintiff.

Judgment for the defendants in the case of Lawson H. DeLauder against John Lee Shaw and Carrie Shaw was revived in the common pleas court this morning on motion of the defendants. The judgment was for $335 and $77.73 costs with interest at the rate of six per cent. from April 9, 1914. The defendants recovered the judgment in the common pleas court May 28, 1914, on their cross-petition in a case brought by DeLauder.

A General Denial.

A general denial of the allegations of the answer, except such as are admissions of charges in the amended petition, is set up in the reply of the plaintiff filed in the common pleas court this morning in the suit of Dean Bastian, a minor, through his next friend, Bert A. Bastian, against the Standard Oil company. The reply was filed through Crissinger, Guthery and Streitz. The plaintiff is suing for $10,200 damages for injuries alleged to have been sustained when one of the defendant company's trucks collided with a motorcycle he was riding on Oak street July 7, 1920.
